Passenger Manifests--Most of the hijackers on September 11 hailed from Saudi Arabia, which, by our own laws, is not required to submit passenger manifests of vessels entering our country. A system most equipped to prevent the passage of dangerous entrants into our country is one which would require an individual to pass through a series of security checkpoints. The Enhanced Border Security Act requires the submission of passenger manifests of all vessels entering our ports, providing an additional opportunity to identify potentially dangerous terrorists.

Restriction of Visas to Nonimmigrants From Countries Sponsoring Terrorism--As a necessary measure to strengthen homeland security during this dangerous time in history, the enhanced Border Security Bill also prohibits the issuance of entry documents to any alien from a country that is a state sponsor of international terrorism, unless the Secretary of State determines that the person is not a threat.

State Sponsors of Terrorism

BUREAU OF COUNTERTERRORISM

Countries determined by the Secretary of State to have repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism are designated pursuant to three laws: section 1754(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016, section 40 of the Arms Export Control Act, and section 102(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. Taken together, the four main categories of sanctions resulting from designation under these authorities include restrictions on U.S. foreign assistance, prohibition on defense exports, and limits on air contracts, their exports of dual use items, and miscellaneous financial and other restrictions.

Designation under the above referenced authorities also implicates other sanctions laws that prohibit persons and countries engaging in certain trade with state sponsors. Currently there are four countries designated under these authorities: Cuba, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, North Korea, Iran, and Syria.
